“Who’s Who in Holiday Hats?”

L&M Arts presents a series of twenty-seven unique ink and watercolor drawings by Andy Warhol, c. 1958, of “marvelous make-believe millinery” that appeared in the 1964 holiday issue of McCall's magazine. Designed with Warhol’s characteristically whimsical sense of humor, each hat is identified with a popular fictional or historical character ranging from Scarlett O’Hara to My Fair Lady.

Accompanying this installation is a selection of Warhol’s drawings of shoes from the portfolio A la Recherche du Shoe Perdu, 1955, a collection of unbound, printed, and hand-colored sheets consisting of fifteen shoes and an illustrated cover, which is also on view.

Collaged, hand-painted, and gilded, each of these drawings reference popular culture with dedications to film stars, fashion icons, and artists; and in doing so, they anticipate the superstars and the society portraits that became synonymous with Warhol in the following decades.
